

Planix exchange Wireframes

A hand-drawn wireframe for a sign-in page. It features a large horizontal rectangle at the top, likely for a header or navigation bar. Below this, on the left side, there are three small, stacked horizontal rectangles. To the right of these, there are two larger, stacked horizontal rectangles, which likely represent input fields for email and password.

Sign In

A hand-drawn wireframe for a register page. It features a large horizontal rectangle at the top, likely for a header or navigation bar. Below this, on the left side, there are four small, stacked horizontal rectangles, which likely represent input fields for first name, last name, email, and password.

Register